In fact, while big tech companies like Facebook are racing to build their own, Centralized, distributed systems, real solutions are available. Governments can help by mandating these technologies as standards. This is why we need the Digital Union, a political union dedicated to the development of the digital and new industries and welfare of citizens. Blockchain technology is a decentralized approach to solving trust challenges that cannot be resolved by trusted intermediaries. Our experience shows that because it does not by nature replace other technologies, it offers an alternative to the current legacy systems, but not a solution. This is why it is very important for the Union to act as a catalyst by setting good examples of the adoption of blockchain and decentralized technologies and promoting the development of the technological innovations at the heart of the #DigitalUnion. The world is a decentralized place. New actors, countries and nationalities are unravelling the established rules. Blockchain tech is at the 570a42141b
